Description

The Historic Fishburne House Pinopolis, SC | 1912 The Fishburne House, a revered landmark in Pinopolis, is now available after being 'not for sale' for decades. This 3,928 sq. ft. historic home, built in 1912 before the creation of Lake Moultrie, features 4 bedrooms, 2.5 bathrooms, 8 fireplaces and sits on a remarkable 1.8-acre lot. Original craftsmanship shines with 11 foot high ceilings downstairs, 10 foot upstairs, a spacious Foyer, 8 foot pocket door, 3/4 wraparound porch supported by Tuscan columns and a colonial style brick and stucco wall gives privacy to the gorgeous in ground pool. The Updates from the 1980s include modern plumbing, electrical, insulation, and drywall, complemented by newer HVAC systems. The attic and ground level offer major expansion potential. Continued..... Several Grand Oaks overlook back yard and in-ground pool, surrounded by azaleas and camellias rumored to have been cloned from Middleton Place by a previous owner. More Details The Fishburne House showcases a blend of history and modernity. Original bricks and a brick-formed wall underscore its architectural significance, while the massive lot provides privacy and versatility. This home, well-known throughout the community, offers a rare chance to own a piece of Pinopolis history. Property is not in the HOA, which gives access to neighborhood dock. The option to join may be available if buyer wishes. A wonderful place to behold.
